LMS PUBLICATIONS CATALOGUE 2017

FOREWORD

This edition of the London Mathematical Society's Publications Catalogue lists:

- journals published by the Society itself;
- journals published by the Society in partnership with other bodies;
- books published by and on behalf of the Society and available for order.

Some time ago, we discovered that the Society holds the rights to a very well-known book, Algebraic Number Theory edited by Cassels and Fröhlich, which was out of print. It was re-published by the LMS in March 2010 and is now available via major online book stores. The book is a standard text for taught courses on the subject and includes landmark contributions from Serre and Tate amongst many others.

The Publications Catalogue is distributed mainly to members of the Society. The Society membership includes a substantial number of research mathematicians, and we encourage members to publish in the Society's journals and book series. To that end, we provide some information of interest to potential authors of papers and book proposals.

The most up-to-date information about all our journals and book series, including links to the electronic versions of the journals, is given on our web pages at: www.lms.ac.uk/publications.

The LMS is committed to keeping the journal archived into the indefinite future. The copyright to all material remains vested in the authors.

Since 2010 the LMS JCM has been hosted by Cambridge University Press. The archive dating back to 1998 as well as new articles are available free of charge via the website: https://www.cambridge.org/core/journals/lms-journal-of-computation-and-mathematics. The journal will continue to publish papers throughout 2017, but was closed to new submissions in October 2015.

TRANSACTIONS OF THE LONDON MATHEMATICAL SOCIETY

ISSN 2052-4986

Editor: Keith Ball, FRS
University of Warwick

The Transactions is a gold open access journal funded by article processing charges, payable by authors with money provided by their institution or funder. The journal covers the same subjects as the Bulletin, Journal and Proceedings of the London Mathematical Society, with whom it shares the LMS Editorial Advisory Board.

The Transactions was launched in 2013, as part of the LMS's ongoing strategy for its publications. The policy of the Society is to provide as wide and varied a service as possible to the whole mathematics community. We believe that open access is here to stay, and we must work with it in all its forms.

The Transactions provides a place for authors whose funders, such as those institutions who have signed the 'Compact for Open Access Equity', require that the papers they fund be published only in purely open access journals.

LMS BOOK SERIES

The London Mathematical Society aims to disseminate mathematical knowledge as widely as possible in the interests of its members and the international mathematical community. To this end, it sponsors two book series: the LMS Lecture Notes and the LMS Student Texts. The Society appoints Academic Editors and Advisers for each series to take responsibility for ensuring high academic quality. It uses the expertise of two professional publishing houses (Cambridge University Press and the American Mathematical Society) to produce, advertise and distribute its books. The Series Publishers and Editors offer advice to authors throughout the process from writing to publication and distribution. The books are marketed and sold by the publishing houses, and they are also advertised through the Society's annual Publications Catalogue and the monthly Newsletter of the LMS. Members can purchase volumes at substantial discounts.

In general, a proposal should consist of an explanation of why the book is being written and for whom, some sample material – preferably a chapter or more and a table of contents – and a brief description of the background and expertise that you can bring. An estimate of the length of the book and a practical time schedule for completion of the manuscript may also be requested by the Editors. Initial enquiries, proposals or manuscripts should be sent to the most appropriate series Editor. Each series also has an Advisory Board, and you may wish to recommend a member of the board as an expert in your field. The Advisory Boards are small, but this does not reflect the breadth of a series. The Editor and the publishing house will find a suitable reviewer for well-prepared proposals.

The Editor of each series will be delighted to give you further information and advice about that series; alternatively you may contact the Editorial Manager, Dr Ola Törnkvist (ola.tornkvist@lms.ac.uk), for general guidance on which series may be the most suitable home for your book.

LMS Lecture Note Series: Miles Reid, Warwick
LMS Student Text Series: Ian Leary, Southampton

All orders for books from these series should be made directly to the relevant distributor, as indicated at the end of each price list.

LONDON MATHEMATICAL SOCIETY LECTURE NOTE SERIES

Published by Cambridge University Press

The Series was founded in 1968 by the Society and Cambridge University Press. Most volumes are short monographs giving authoritative accounts of the present state of knowledge on a topic of general interest. Records of lectures and seminars held internationally on advanced topics in mathematics are also published. The Series accepts some conference proceedings, especially those of an instructional nature and other collective works with similar aims. In general, the series is relaxed and informal but places importance on the quality of exposition. To date, over 400 volumes have appeared.

The Editor is Miles Reid (Mathematics Institute, University of Warwick, Coventry CV4 7AL, UK; miles.reid@warwick.ac.uk). Editorial Advisers are B Green, R Heath-Brown, R Rouquier, T Stafford and E Süli. Intending authors may also contact Roger Astley, Cambridge University Press: rastley@cambridge.org.

ORDERING INFORMATION - LECTURE NOTES AND STUDENT TEXTS

Books from the Lecture Note and Student Texts series are offered to members at a discount of 25% and may be ordered directly from Cambridge University Press or by using the order form that can be downloaded via the web page www.lms.ac.uk/content/books. The form should be sent to CUP. Books cannot be ordered from the Society, and all enquiries about book sales and available stock should be addressed to CUP.

LONDON MATHEMATICAL SOCIETY STUDENT TEXT SERIES
Published by Cambridge University Press

The LMS Student Texts, established in 1983, complements the LMS Lecture Note Series with textbooks of an expository nature aimed at advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students. It aims to offer introductions to areas where there is an absence of well-established exposition, providing students with access to new and exciting ideas as they emerge. Ideally a student text should be accessible to a first-year research student working alone. Texts are frequently based on graduate courses given by the authors. Translations of successful books and proceedings of suitable instructional conferences are also considered. To date, the series contains nearly 80 titles. Camera-ready copy or TeX files are usually provided by the author, and books are 150–400 pages in length. The benefits of low-cost production are passed on to purchasers via modest pricing of the soft-cover versions.

The Editor is David Benson (Aberdeen; bensondj@maths.abdn.ac.uk), and Editorial Advisers are A M Etheridge, M W Liebeck, J R Partington, R M Roberts, U L Tillmann and J F Toland. Alternatively, proposals may be submitted via Roger Astley (rastley@cambridge.org) of Cambridge University Press, who is also happy to give advice.

LONDON MATHEMATICAL SOCIETY MONOGRAPHS

Published by Princeton University Press

The list includes books published earlier in the series by Oxford University Press

The original series was founded in 1968 by the Society and Academic Press. The present second series was launched by the Society and Oxford University Press in 1983, and in 2003 the series was moved to Princeton University Press. In this catalogue we present the entire backlist of monographs.

The aim of this series was to publish authoritative accounts of current research in mathematics and high-quality expository works bringing the reader to the frontiers of research. Of particular interest were topics that had developed rapidly in the last ten years but that have reached a certain level of maturity. Clarity of exposition is important and each book should be accessible to those commencing work in its field.

The Editors are Martin Bridson (University of Oxford; bridson@maths.ox.ac.uk), Ben Green (University of Cambridge; b.j.green@dpmms.cam.ac.uk) and Peter Sarnak (Princeton University; sarnak@math.princeton.edu). The Editorial Advisers are M L Gromov, J F Le Gall and R L Taylor.

LONDON MATHEMATICAL JOINT HISTORY SERIES

Joint AMS/LMS Book Series

The History of Mathematics series presents historical perspectives on individuals who have profoundly influenced the development of mathematics as well as those who have made great contributions to the mathematical community. The aim is to publish volumes that are likely to be of interest to the average working mathematician at a reasonable price. The series also traces the development of special areas of research. Books are bound in attractive covers and are published to a high standard of production quality through the American Mathematical Society's offices in Rhode Island, USA.
